

Greetings from CMTI

We are pleased to inform you that we are conducting a 02 day Non-Residential Training programme on "Practical Training on Polymeric Device Fabrication.", course code 0732

Highlights / Overview of the Program:

Fabrication of desired microstructures in polymers is always of keen interest for applications in Biomedical, optics, sensors and Photonics. The challenge is to fabricate structures in the sub-micron range but at a low cost. By undergoing this training, an individual shall be able to understand simple and low-cost fabrication process chain for fabricating desired microstructures in the polymer as per the end-user demands.

The following aspects shall be covered in the training course.

- Fabrication process knowledge which includes Micro Moulding techniques etc.
- Characterization of the devices to verify whether the requirement is met in between the processes.
- Testing and validation of the product for performance evaluation.

Target Participants:

Students, academicians, researchers, product developers in the field of sensors, Bio Medical MEMS Device development .
