

Greetings from CMTI

We are pleased to inform you that we are conducting a 02 days Non-Residential Training programme on "Design for Manufacturing & Assembly", course code 0630

Highlights / Overview of the Program:

Design for Manufacturing & Assembly techniques address issues related to product manufacturing and assembly during design stage. It is said that about 70% of product cost is decided during design stage itself. DFMA techniques call for team work and result in enhanced product performance. DFMA techniques help in reducing the cost of a product, number of iterations and time to market. It helps in improving the quality of a product and its reliability during service. DFMA techniques are being used by a number of organizations to develop the product right at first attempt.
